Why Inquiry?

Engaging in a wellbeing practice such as mindfulness without learning about mindfulness is not dissimilar to simply giving students the equation in mathematics. They'll feel good or they'll get the answer – but they won't know why.

Inquiry = Construction of Knowledge

By focussing on what students learn, rather than “wellbeing interventions” we place positive education in a learning discourse rather than a health/illness discourse.

Embedding Wellbeing into Units of Inquiry

Where we are in place and time

Belonging is created through journeys and connections to places.

An Inquiry into:

- Connection to Country and Place (Connection)
- The different perspectives of home (Perspective)
- How personal journeys impact the feeling of 'home' (Causation)
- An inquiry into respectful communication with others (Visible Wellbeing: Relationships)

During our unit of inquiry 'Where we are in place and time', students focused on the concept of belonging and how it is created through connections to places. This allowed students to explore connection to Country and place.

In addition, the different perspectives of home and how personal journeys impact the feeling of 'home'. During the inquiry when students shared the journey behind a personal artefact, they had the opportunity to trial 'Active Constructive Responding' a technique to support respectful communication with others.

Embedded into our unit of inquiry assessment

Connection to Country and place

Ready to learn	Names layers of Country and place	Describes layers of Country and place	Describes connection to Country and place	Explains impact of connection to Country and place
----------------	-----------------------------------	---------------------------------------	---	--

The different perspectives of home

Ready to learn	Shares perspective on what feels like home	Describes other perspectives of home	Compares between others' and own perspectives of home	Explains why there are different perspectives of home
----------------	--	--------------------------------------	---	---

How personal journeys impact the feeling of 'home'

Ready to learn	Shares an artefact from own home	Describes the journey behind artefacts	Connects artefacts to the feeling of 'home'	Explains how people's personal journeys impact their feeling of 'home'

Respectful communication with others

Ready to learn	Names parts of 'active, constructive responding'	Experiments with 'active, constructive responding'	Uses 'active, constructive responding' when communicating with peers	Reflects on how 'active, constructive responding' helps us communicate positively
----------------	--	--	--	---

Within Numeracy

An inquiry into the role that attention and awareness plays in enhancing the effectiveness of our thinking classroom groupings.

I am ready to learn

I have my own ideas that I can contribute to the group

I am aware that people have ideas that are different to my own

I value the contributions of others by asking them questions

I am able to reflect on how the contributions of others' impact my learning and thinking

Embedding Wellbeing into Writing Units

Wellbeing link to - Emotional

An inquiry into how being aware of emotions can persuade our readers

- Emotional language
  - Reading mentor texts and identifying the emotion it is trying to provoke in its readers
  - Reflection on how emotion was used to persuade readers in their own writing
- Word Study
  - Structured word inquiry into naming language of emotions, synonyms and connotations
  - Emotional granularity chart to identify levels on intensity and pleasure in emotions
- Using features (images, colour etc) to provoke emotions
  - Intentional use of images
  - Making connections between colours and emotions

“Wouldn't you love someone to talk about your feelings to?” (Grace H, 2022)

Which emotions were you trying to provoke in your reader?

I used the emotion guilt to provoke the reader because guilt is a really high arousal emotion and that can spark something strong inside the reader.

Inquiry into how we can identify the strengths of an author.

- Conferences (with teacher, with peers)
- Reading mentor texts to identify strengths of the author

Inquiry into how we can set specific goals to improve our writing habits.

- Goal setting through conferencing
- Establishing working habits in class time
- Reflecting on work to set goals for improvement

Inquiry into how we can manage setbacks and changes to our plans.

- Use our diaries to note due dates
- Strategies when things go wrong
- How to revise and edit our work

Inquiry into how the relationships we have can influence the topics we write about.

- Selecting meaningful topics to read and write
- Using personal experiences as a persuasive technique

An inquiry into how being aware of emotions can persuade our readers.

- Connotations
- Identifying and using emotional language
- Using features (images, colour, etc) to provoke emotions

Inquiry into how we can be aware of what brings attention to our text from the readers.

- Headlines
- Visual elements - images, colours
- Paragraphs
- Using pronouns to make readers feel involved

Opportunities for embedding wellbeing into learning

- Identify a learning area within your school that is currently 'humming' where there could be potentially be some redesign where wellbeing isn't explicitly present.
  - What might be the opportunities of embedding wellbeing within this current strength?
  - Who do you need to speak to?
  - What support might you need?
- If your school is already further down the path in terms of embedding wellbeing and learning as one;
  - What are the next steps to further enhance the great work that you're already doing?
  - Who do you need to speak to?
  - What support might you need?

Orientation to our network, our vision and each other

We believe...

We understand...

Therefore we will...

A man with dark hair and a dark shirt is holding a white sign with handwritten text. The sign reads: "I'll be going out with one of these girls...". The background is dark with some bokeh lights.

I'll be going out with one of these girls...

Everyone belongs to the Alpine-Towong Network Learning Community.

We believe everyone is part of our learning community and has a voice and a role that is valued.

We believe that everyone feels welcomed and accepted.

We understand everyone comes with different skills, knowledge, experience and ideas to share in a collaborative and safe, positive environment.

We understand that belonging is a core component of our professional network.

Therefore, we will value and celebrate our time together, to build an inclusive Alpine-Towong Learning Community.

Therefore, we will all be supportive of each other.

Students belong in their classrooms and school.

We believe that all students should feel safe, valued and connected to their community.

We understand that this is not currently the case for all of our students.

Therefore, we will provide environments where safety of all is paramount. We connect with each of our students, staff, and parents daily and we establish strong connections and relationships.

Staff belong in their schools and network.

We believe all staff have voice and impact in and beyond their school.

We believe that everyone has something to contribute.

We understand that belonging depends on being valued, respected and a sense of connectedness.

We understand that it takes time to develop a sense of belonging.

Therefore, we will commit to working collaboratively to challenge and support all staff to have impact and belong.

Therefore, we will create an environment to promote connections, trust, collaboration and belonging.

We work collaboratively to challenge and support the development and growth of every member

We believe we can all learn from each other and make positive contributions to our network.

We understand that this takes individual effort to actively contribute and be open to growth.

Therefore, we will commit to the network by turning up and participating fully.
